

Applegate's Update

Protecting Our Students and Improving Their Success

Over the last week there has been a very disturbing rise in hateful acts directed at certain groups on college campuses and increased anxiety among students from those targeted groups. From New York to California and many states in between hateful graffiti and threatening emails have been posted. Attacks on Muslim students on campus have been reported. In Illinois we have received reports of dramatic increases to national and Illinois hotlines from students feeling stressed about their future status, especially undocumented students. In Illinois IBHE and our institutional leaders have been actively working to provide assurances to our students that they are not alone and that we are both behind and in front to protect them. Illinois college presidents have issued clear statements to their campuses and communities that we all remain fully committed to the values of diversity and inclusion embodied in our core mission statements. Illinois needs the talents of ALL its students if it is to succeed as a state. Going forward IBHE wants to be a partner with all of our campuses in developing proactive strategies to preserve our campuses as safe and accepting communities where all of our students resist temptation to succumb to the temptations of division and hate and realize the goals of education to be better citizens.

On the proactive side, IBHE was proud to organize an Illinois state team to join nearly 50 other state teams last week at the national meeting of Complete College America (CCA). As noted in previous updates, Illinois is an active member of the CCA state alliance focused on implementing "game changing" strategies on our campuses that have been proven to reduce if not eliminate gaps for underserved students (low income, first generation, adult and students of color). These innovations also help all students better complete degrees more efficiently and at lower costs. We are grateful to Senator Donne E. Trotter, Chair of the Senate Appropriations Committee; Representative Kelly Burke, Chair of the House Higher Education Committee; Secretary of Education Beth Purvis; and Brian Durham, Deputy Director of Academic Affairs, Illinois Community College Board for joining Malinda Aiello, Assistant Director for Academic Affairs from IBHE, and me to learn from other states' successes and how to develop strategies to build on our own. Illinois has exciting statewide initiatives focused on redesigning college developmental education to ensure underprepared college students move quickly into credit bearing course work and attain degrees. The state is also advancing important work to create college math pathways that better serve all students and make math less of a barrier to college completion. We now hope to expand the full set of game changer efforts (developmental redesign, clear efficient pathways to degrees and careers that eliminate excess credits and improved on-time completion, better student data and more effective advising) to more institutions in Illinois. SIUC, UIC, and City Colleges have been working with us on this integrated approach for several years with good results and will help us scale up the work to other colleges.

As all in Illinois higher education continue working together, safe and inclusive campus cultures and improved college and career success are goals we can achieve for our students in Illinois.

The Southern Illinois University Technology and Innovation Expo held on Oct. 13, was attended by more than 200 investors, economic development officers, corporate business development professionals, policymakers, and entrepreneurs at Chicago's 1871 incubator to hear speed pitches and interact with 19 top inventors and innovators from SIU's Carbondale, Edwardsville, and School of Medicine campuses. Highlights from the event included a speech from U.S. Sen. Dick Durbin and a video address from Gov. Bruce Rauner.

By partnering with a Coles County -based business, Eastern Illinois University is getting its name spread throughout Illinois and beyond. EIU shares its billing with Rural King, a farm and home company headquartered in Mattoon, on vinyl wrappings covering four of hundreds of trailers that deliver goods to nearly 100 stores in an 11-state area.

"The first time this sort of thing came to my attention was ten or more years ago when a friend who worked there told me that the University of Montana was using tractor-trailers to help market their institution," said Steve Rich, assistant vice president for advancement at EIU. "I remember thinking then what a great idea it was – a moving billboard!"

The newly wrapped trailers were ready in late September and have already spent several weeks on the road. One of the four trailers remains in Illinois at all times. The remaining three travel the roads throughout seven states of Rural King's 11-state area, which includes Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Michigan, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Florida, West Virginia and Virginia.

Eastern already markets itself in Illinois' bordering states – Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, Missouri and Wisconsin – allowing those students to pay the same tuition rate as in-state students.

Increasing Affordability

The FY 2016 Revenue and Expenditure Report is now available on the IBHE website. This reports on Illinois' twelve public universities revenues and expenditures.

Highlights of Report include:

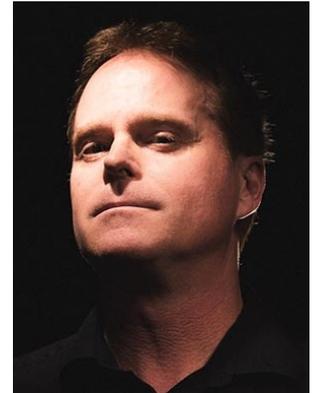

- Illinois public universities reported total revenues from all sources (including state appropriated, income funds, and non-appropriated sources) of $6.2 billion in Fiscal Year 2016.
- For state appropriated funds, only $356 million in appropriations were included in the first stop gap bill enacted in April, 2016. This reflects nearly 70 % less than the final appropriation level for Fiscal Year 2015, or approximately $850 million. While the second stop gap bill adopted in late June 2016 provided $645 million in state appropriations, it is accounted for as revenues in Fiscal Year 2017
- University income fund (tuition revenue) increased by $88 million, or 5% to $1.9 billion.
- Total expenditures from state appropriated and university income funds dropped by $53.3 million, or 5% to $2.9 billion.
- Total overall expenditures for Fiscal Year 2016 were approximately $7.0 billion in which university income funds and other non-appropriated funds made up the difference of the shortfall of state funding.
