Dr. James L. Applegate, serves as the Executive Director for the Illinois Board of Higher Education

As the state higher education executive officer, Dr. Applegate leads efforts to dramatically expand college opportunity in Illinois, especially for low income, first generation, adult and students of color. He also works to increase higher education's contributions to Illinois' economic and civic health as part of advancing Illinois' Public Agenda.

Prior to assuming this position Jim served as Vice President for the Lumina Foundation, the largest U.S. foundation solely focused on improving higher education. In this role, he led in increasing the effectiveness of the Foundation's programs supporting achievement of "Goal 2025" to dramatically increase educational attainment in the U.S, especially for low income, first generation, minority, and adult students.

Jim led the entire program staff at Lumina developing new approaches to strategically invest Lumina's $50 million grant budget. He also led Lumina's convening strategy designed to mobilize key constituencies across multiple sectors to support education improvement. Finally, he served as an advocate for improving higher education performance engaging in more than 40 keynotes and presentations annually before federal and state policy makers, higher education and business leaders, and philanthropic groups.

Prior to joining Lumina in 2008, he served as Senior Fellow and Vice President for Academic Affairs at the Kentucky state higher education system office from 1999 through 2008. As chief academic officer in Kentucky, he coordinated statewide initiatives over the decade that resulted in Kentucky leading the nation in increasing college attainment.

Jim was a Professor of Communication at the University of Kentucky. From 1984 until 1999 he was Chair of that Department. During that period he also served as University Senate Chair and an American Council on Education Fellow. He serves on various national advisory boards for organizations engaged in education improvement. He was elected President of the National Communication Association, the world's largest association of communication scholars. His published research was recognized by various organizations for their contributions to his discipline. As a consultant, he has conducted over 250 seminars and workshops for corporate, academic and government organizations to improve communication policies and practices.

Jim earned his B.A from Georgetown College (KY) as well as an M.A. and Ph.D. as a University Fellow at the University of Illinois. His dissertation received the award given to the most outstanding dissertations completed in his field.

Closing Comments:

Dr. Karen Hunter Anderson, Executive Director, Illinois Community College Board

Dr. Karen Hunter Anderson, Executive Director for the Illinois Community College Board (ICCB), joined the ICCB in 1999. Advancing from the position of Vice President of the ICCB to Executive Director in July 2013, Dr. Anderson is the first ICCB staff person to be selected for the permanent position of Executive Director. The other positions held by Dr. Anderson within the ICCB include, Vice President for Adult Education and Institutional Support, Senior Director for Student and Instructional Development, Director of Career and Technical Education, and Associate Director of Education to Careers. In these roles, Dr. Anderson has served as an administrator for nearly all the Board's functions in academic affairs, workforce development, adult education, education technology, career and technical education, and institutional research and policy studies.

Dr. Anderson's experience includes 15 years at ICCB, 11 years with campus administration, and 12 years teaching experience, for a total of over 37 years of educational experience. Prior to her work at the ICCB, Dr. Anderson was the principal and president of Ursuline Academy in Springfield; provost, registrar, and acting president of Springfield College in Illinois; assistant professor of English at Millikin University; and a professor and coordinator of the Bilingual Business Studies Program at Midway College.

Dr. Anderson has worked closely with many sectors, organizations, and committees of the community college system. She has also connected with such state and national groups as the Illinois Business Roundtable, the State Chamber of Commerce, Women Employed, Jobs for the Future, and the Center for Law and Social Policy. As part of the ICCB executive staff she has developed critical relationships with the General Assembly, the Lieutenant Governor's Office, and the Governor's Office.

In addition to her relationships with State government, Dr. Anderson has also fostered relationships with Secretary of Education Arne Duncan and the White House through her involvement with the College Opportunity Summit, where she was one of only a few state higher education representatives invited, and with the offices of Senators Mark Kirk and Dick Durbin concerning other higher education initiatives that concern Illinois and the United States.

Dr. Anderson received her M.A. in English and Ph.D. in Rhetoric and Composition from the University of Louisville in Louisville, Kentucky. Dr. Anderson is also the author of an ESL college-level textbook. In November, 2010, Dr. Anderson received an award from the Illinois Council of Community College Administrators, recognizing her outstanding service to the community college system. She speaks four languages and has two sons.
