

OUTMIGRATION CONTEXT: RESIDENCE AND MIGRATION PATTERNS OF FRESHMEN STUDENTS INTO AND FROM ILLINOIS

RESIDENCE AND MIGRATION OF FRESHMEN STUDENTS INTO AND FROM ILLINOIS (2000-2016)*

*This is a combined graphic that includes two scales. The scale on the top is specific to: A) the number of Illinois residents enrolled at out-of-state institutions; and B) the number of non-residents enrolled at Illinois colleges. The trend line on the bottom depicts the net, or B relative to A.

- In fall of 2016, the number of Illinois residents enrolled outside the state as freshmen increased substantially.
 - Relative to 2014, or the last time this information was available prior to the Illinois budget impasse, the number of Illinois residents enrolled outside the state has increased by 1,749 or 5%.
 - Since 2000, the number of Illinois residents enrolled as freshmen outside the state has increased by 73% (20,507 to 35,445).
- In 2016, the net loss of Illinois residents to colleges in other states was -19,278, which was larger than the undergraduate student body (not just freshmen) of every Illinois public university, with the exception of UIUC.

- Based on 2016 information, Illinois experienced the second greatest net loss of residents to colleges in other states.
- New Jersey (-28,932) has traditionally been the net loss leader, along with Illinois, Texas (-12,240), and Maryland (-7,667).

ENROLLMENT AMONG ILLINOIS RESIDENTS WHO RECENTLY GRADUATED HIGH SCHOOL AND ENROLLED AS COLLEGE FRESHMEN AT FOUR-YEAR INSTITUTIONS

The rate of out-of-state enrollment among recent high school graduates from Illinois who enrolled as freshmen at four-year institutions has increased from 33% in 2000 to 48% in 2016. Although the number of Illinois residents enrolled as college freshmen at Illinois four-year institutions is down from its peak in 2006, the 2000, 2002, and 2016 numbers are all fairly similar. Therefore, all of the enrollment growth for such Illinois residents since 2006 has occurred outside the state. In fact, the number of Illinois residents enrolled outside the state at four-year institutions has increased from 16,987 in 2000 to 31,477 in 2016 (+85%).

Note: This is a combined graphic that includes two scales. The scale on the left is specific to: A) the number of Illinois residents who recently graduated high school and enrolled at four-year institutions in Illinois; and B) the number of Illinois residents who recently graduated high school and enrolled at out-of-state four-year institutions. The scale on the right relates to the trend line and specifies the rate of out-of-state enrollment among all Illinois residents who recently graduated high school and enrolled at four-year institutions.

DATA SOURCES

2016: U.S. Department of Education, National Center for Education Statistics, Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS), Residence and migration of first-time freshman: Fall 2016. This information was prepared by IBHE in January of 2018 using the complete data file. The information includes all first-time postsecondary students enrolled at reporting degree-granting institutions that confer associate's degrees or higher, and participate in Title IV federal financial aid programs. Branch campuses of Title IV eligible main campuses (most of which primarily offer on-line courses) were excluded from the calculations, as were students with their residence status listed as unknown or their state listed as unknown.
